About the Meadow Brook Lecture Series

The Southeast Michigan Center for Medical Education established the Meadow Brook Lecture Series in Medicine and Surgery in 1977. The Lecture Series is designed to provide physicians in southeastern Michigan with a unique opportunity to hear internationally prominent persons in the forefront of medicine and surgery. The lecture is held annually in conjunction with the SEMCME Research Forum.

About the Speaker

Timothy Brigham, MDiv, PhD is the Chief of Staff and Senior Vice-President, Department of Education at the ACGME. He is also Co-Chair of the Physician Well-Being Task Force. Dr. Brigham's responsibilities, as head of the Department of Education, include the ACGME's Annual Educational Conference, the Milestone Outcome Project, and the development of new educational programs for the ACGME. Prior to joining the ACGME in 2008, Dr. Brigham served since 1989 in several capacities at Jefferson Medical College, including associate dean for graduate medical education and continuing medical education and, most recently, as senior associate dean for organizational development. Dr. Brigham has been involved in physician faculty development, resident education and chief resident and program director development.

Dr. Brigham holds a PhD in psychological studies in education from Temple University, a Master's degree in counseling and human relations from Villanova University, a master's of divinity from Palmer Theological Seminary, and a bachelor's from Eastern University.

Audience

The 2018 Meadow Brook Lecture is intended for all physicians, residents, faculty, and medical education professionals.

Objectives

At the conclusion of the lecture, participants will be able to:

- Explore the complex issues surrounding resident and practicing physician wellness.
- Reflect on current trends affecting resident and practicing physician wellness and stressors leading to burnout and suicide.
- Understand work being done at a national level through the ACGME's efforts to address the need for prevention and counseling programming, support systems and solutions.

Lovett Hall (new venue)

This year marks a new beginning for the Meadow Brook Lecture Series as it will move to beautiful Lovett Hall located on the Henry Ford Museum campus in Dearborn, Michigan. The planning committee hopes this move will attract an even larger audience to this centrally located venue. Lovett Hall is the site of unsurpassed elegance where Henry Ford hosted some of the greatest names in history.

Registration

Faculty, attending physicians, residents, and researchers are invited to attend. Register online at www.semcme.org.

For SEMCME members, there is no registration fee to attend the Research Forum and the Meadow Brook Lecture & Luncheon. For non-members the cost is $50. Pre-registration is required. A confirmation email and map will be sent to all registrants. Please contact SEMCME at 313-577-1297 if you have any questions. If you have problems registering, please email semcme@med.wayne.edu and SEMCME will get back to you.
