Scholarly Productivity and the Busy Clinician Educator

This afternoon workshop is designed for program directors, faculty, aspiring scholars, chief residents, researchers and anyone else interested in scholarship within medicine. Dr. Philibert will share new guidelines from the ACGME regarding scholarship, QI projects and other durable materials academics and aspiring academics may develop. In addition to Dr. Philibert's lecture, learn from Dr. Olomu about her knowledge and experience with research support groups and hear from two local physicians on their scholarship journeys. Hope you can join us!

Session Objectives:

By the end of this session, participants will be able to:

- Describe the ACGME standards for resident and faculty scholarship and proposed revisions to these standards
- Identify 3 journals or conferences suitable for submitting a scholarly project
- Develop a personal action plan for increasing their scholarship over the next year and some key metrics for assessing success
- Suggest steps their home-institution can take to support individuals who intend to increase their scholarly productivity

CME Credit:

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the accreditation requirements and policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint providership of Wayne State University School of Medicine and Southeast Michigan Center for Medical Education.
